

Congratulations to our poster winners from the 2021 Data Science Day organized by the NextGen committee of the New England Statistical Society on November 6, 2021!

Professional category:

First place: Poster 12, Enock Havyarimana, University of Glasgow, “Long-term exposure to air pollution and the risk for autoimmune diseases in UK Biobank 0.5million population sample”

Second place: Poster 16, Xiaonan Zhu, University of North Alabama, “Stochastic frontier models under skew normal settings”

Graduate category:

First place: Poster 8, Sydney Louit, UConn, “Predicting Future Light Pollution Using VIIRS Satellite Data and OECD GDP Projections to 2060”

Second place: Poster 4, Linh Nguyen, Taiwo Bada, Silvia Chalkou, Bentley University, “Forecasting Unemployment Rate in the US”

Poster 15, Ryna Rajesh Satia, Bentley University, “Analysis of Bigfoot Sightings in Python”

Third place: Poster 11, Elif Kaya, Bentley University, “Time series analysis on avocado prices”

Poster 10, Gina Salcedo Lanin, Bentley University, “The housing market and the economy”

Honorable mentions:

Poster 9, Jiajia Liu, Bentley University, “Social and Demographic Factors on Covid-19 Cases”

Poster 3, Dilip Jagannathan Seshadri, Bentley University, “Forecasting NBA scores using historical data”

Poster 7, Deepa Chandrachud, Bentley University, “Modeling US fuel retail prices”